

qBraid: a 10-person Chicago quantum cloud with a reachable CTO

Account entry plan for Spencer Refer | Prepared Thursday, October 1, 2026 | Sources: ZoomInfo, Apollo

111 S Wacker Dr, Chicago	~10 employees	76 Data Center intent (Sep 5)	0 touches so far
STAGE Untouched prospect. No deal.	RUNNING NOW CTF SCORE - Tier A call-first (Ryan Hill), launched Oct 1-2	LAST TOUCH None	NEXT STEP Cadence running: call, then email, then LinkedIn qBraid is a Chicago quantum software platform (about 10 people, 111 S Wacker) giving developers cloud access to CPUs, GPUs and quantum processors. On Sep 22 it added Quobly's silicon quantum development environment. ZoomInfo shows Data Center 76 intent. It's small, but a natural ecosystem partner and a future buyer if it hosts hardware. Ryan Hill, CTO since 2021, has a verified email.

Bottom line

What qBraid is, in one analogy qBraid is a small app store for quantum computers. Today it rents shelf space; tomorrow it may need its own warehouse.

Channel: Email Wed Oct 7 | Subject: Chicago fiber, from one Chicago builder to another

Ryan, congrats on adding Quobly. If qBraid ever hosts hardware or needs a dedicated path from Wacker to the data centers at 350 E Cermak, Crosstown owns that fiber and maps it to the conduit. Happy to grab coffee in the Loop.
