

Reaching TensorWave's new data center leadership

Account entry plan for Spencer Refer | Prepared Thursday, October 1, 2026 | Sources: HubSpot, Lemlist, ZoomInfo, Apollo

Sep 28 New Chief Data Center Officer and EVP Cluster Engineering	$350M Series B (Jun 2026), $1.55B valuation	10 TensorWave leads in Wave C	1 live call (not the decision-maker)
STAGE Wave C prospect. No deal.	RUNNING NOW CTF ABM - TensorWave (Wave C), 10 leads; 6 added Sep 28	LAST TOUCH Sep 29: VM to Sean Tobin; live call with Prince Darquee	NEXT STEP Fri Oct 2: one-off congratulations note to Thomas Schmitzer

Bottom line

TensorWave just reshuffled the exact team you sell to. On Sep 28 it promoted Aaron Baker to Chief Data Center Officer and hired JP Buzzell as EVP, Cluster Engineering and Delivery, and it's hiring a VP of Global Procurement and a Senior Manager for Cluster Engineering and Deployment. It raised $350M in June and is spreading clusters across Arizona and Pennsylvania with TECfusions. Your best relationship asset is Thomas Schmitzer, Director of Network Engineering: two emails, a LinkedIn invite and a liked post, no reply. The briefing's call is right: a one-off note to Schmitzer about the new leadership, and get Baker and Buzzell into HubSpot.

What TensorWave is, in one analogy

TensorWave rents out AMD GPU clusters the way a car-rental company rents fleets. New executives running 'cluster delivery' are like a new fleet manager: they decide which lots open next and which roads connect them.

How the access path should run

Messages, by contact

1. Thomas Schmitzer Director of Network Engineering

Why them: Briefing's #3 action; a friendly, non-salesy note.

Channel: Email Fri Oct 2 (pause his Wave C steps first) | Subject: Congrats on the build-out

Thomas, congratulations to the team on Aaron's promotion and JP joining for cluster delivery. Sounds like the build-out is speeding up. If any of it touches the Midwest, I own underground fiber in Chicago and I'm happy to send a map. No pitch beyond that.

2. JP Buzzell EVP, Cluster Engineering & Delivery

Why them: New in role, deciding delivery partners.

Channel: Email Wed Oct 7 (after adding to HubSpot) | Subject: Welcome to TensorWave, and one connectivity question

JP, welcome to TensorWave. As you plan where the next clusters land, is connectivity between sites something your team sources, or does it sit with network engineering? I own fiber in Chicago and want to talk to the right person.
