

Versa Networks: an SD-WAN vendor; test for a partner fit

Account entry plan for Spencer Refer | Prepared Thursday, October 1, 2026 | Sources: HubSpot, Lemlist, ZoomInfo

94 Cloud intent, audience A	76 Networking/Telecom intent	15 Versa contacts in HubSpot	0 replies so far
STAGE Prospect. Fit unclear.	RUNNING NOW CTF ENT - Practitioners (Anmol V); Amey Dixit, Jeshninth Roy (Sep 30), Ajith P (Oct 1) emailed	LAST TOUCH Oct 1: Ajith P emailed; Feb 24 and Mar 3 emails to Anmol V (no reply)	NEXT STEP Wed Oct 7: email Amey Dixit (Senior Network Manager) with a partner question

Bottom line

Versa (about 700 people, Santa Clara) makes SD-WAN and SASE software and sells mostly through service providers. ZoomInfo intent is moderate (Cloud 94, Networking/Telecom 76, Bandwidth 76), and its scoops are all about sales and marketing. The 15 HubSpot contacts are mostly network architects who design customers' networks, not people who buy Versa's own circuits. The better fit is probably partnership: Versa-powered service providers need underlay fiber. Ask once, then decide.

What Versa is, in one analogy

Versa makes the traffic lights, not the roads. Its customers who install the lights still need roads, and that's where we fit.

How the access path should run

Messages, by contact

1. Amey Dixit Senior Network Manager

Why them: Qualify the partner angle.

Channel: Email Wed Oct 7 | Subject: Underlay fiber for Versa deployments in Chicago

Amey, when Versa customers or service providers in Chicago need diverse underlay, who do they call? Crosstown owns underground fiber on-net at Equinix and Digital Realty at 350 E Cermak, mapped to the conduit. If there's a partner team, I'd like to connect.

The plan
